

Here's the cover letter:

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Y1-8 science/STEM teaching position at KingsWay School. With 18 years of dedicated experience in Foundation Phase and Special Education, I am confident my expertise and passion for inclusive, adaptive learning will be a valuable asset to your educational team.

My professional background is distinguished by comprehensive experience supporting students with diverse learning needs, including those with autism, Down syndrome, ADHD, and intellectual disabilities. Throughout my career, I have successfully developed and implemented customised curriculum strategies that foster inclusive, engaging learning environments where every student can thrive.

As a registered New Zealand teacher with a Bachelor of Education in Foundation Phase and additional certifications in Makaton and Sign Language, I bring a holistic approach to educational support. My training has equipped me with advanced skills in curriculum adaptation, learning support, and behaviour modification strategies that are particularly crucial in science and STEM education.

My commitment to creating dynamic, inclusive learning experiences aligns perfectly with KingsWay School's educational philosophy. I am particularly excited about the opportunity to bring my expertise in special educational needs and STEM learning to your school, where I can contribute to developing innovative, accessible scientific learning experiences for all students.

My multilingual background and extensive experience in differentiated instruction will enable me to create a supportive, stimulating classroom environment that encourages scientific curiosity and critical thinking across all learning abilities.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my skills and experience can contribute to KingsWay School's educational objectives.

Kind regards,

Henriette Charlotte Beeslaar
