

Here's the cover letter:

Dear Hiring Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the junior/middle primary teaching position at Ngakuru School. With 18 years of dedicated experience in Foundation Phase and Special Education, I am excited about the opportunity to contribute my expertise to your educational community.

My professional background is deeply rooted in creating inclusive, supportive learning environments, particularly for students with diverse educational needs. Throughout my career, I have developed specialised skills in supporting students with autism, Down syndrome, ADHD, and intellectual disabilities, consistently demonstrating a commitment to personalised, adaptive learning strategies.

As a registered New Zealand teacher with a Bachelor of Education in Foundation Phase, I bring both internationally recognised qualifications and extensive practical experience. My Makaton certification and Sign Language training further enhance my ability to communicate effectively with students of varying abilities, ensuring every child feels understood and supported.

My approach to teaching centres on curriculum adaptation, recognising that each student learns differently. I have a proven track record of developing individualised learning plans that promote academic growth, social integration, and personal confidence. My expertise in behaviour modification and early childhood development allows me to create nurturing, structured classroom environments where all students can thrive.

Ngakuru School's commitment to inclusive education resonates strongly with my professional philosophy. I am passionate about creating dynamic, engaging learning experiences that celebrate every student's unique potential.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my skills and experience align with your school's educational goals.

Warm regards,

Henriette Charlotte Beeslaar
