

Here's the cover letter:

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Learning Support Coordinator position at Waiheke Primary School. With 18 years of dedicated experience in Foundation Phase and Special Education, I am confident my expertise aligns perfectly with your school's inclusive learning environment.

My professional background is specifically focused on supporting students with diverse learning needs, including extensive experience working with students with autism, Down syndrome, ADHD, and intellectual disabilities. Throughout my career, I have developed specialized skills in curriculum adaptation, behaviour modification, and creating supportive learning frameworks that enable every student to achieve their full potential.

As a registered New Zealand teacher with a Bachelor of Education in Foundation Phase and additional certifications in Makaton and Sign Language, I bring a comprehensive and nuanced approach to learning support. My experience has consistently demonstrated my ability to develop individualized education plans, collaborate effectively with multidisciplinary teams, and create inclusive classroom environments that celebrate neurodiversity.

I am particularly drawn to Waiheke Primary School's commitment to supporting students with unique learning profiles. My professional philosophy centers on recognizing each student's inherent strengths and designing targeted interventions that foster academic and personal growth.

My bilingual background in English and Afrikaans, combined with my specialized training, allows me to communicate and connect with students and families from diverse backgrounds. I am passionate about creating meaningful, adaptive learning experiences that empower students to thrive.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my skills and experience could contribute to your school's learning support program.

Warm regards,

Henriette Charlotte Beeslaar
