

Here's the cover letter:

Dear Principal and Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Resource Teacher: Learning and Behaviour position at Edgecumbe School. With 18+ years of dedicated experience in Foundation Phase and Special Education, I am confident in my ability to contribute meaningfully to your inclusive learning environment.

My professional background is specifically tailored to supporting students with diverse learning needs. Throughout my career, I have developed comprehensive expertise in working with students with autism, Down syndrome, ADHD, and intellectual disabilities. My approach is centred on personalised learning strategies, curriculum adaptation, and creating supportive, engaging classroom environments that enable every student to achieve their potential.

My qualifications include a Bachelor of Education (Foundation Phase) and current New Zealand Teaching Registration, which demonstrates my commitment to professional standards and ongoing educational excellence. Additionally, my Makaton and Sign Language certifications reflect my dedication to inclusive communication strategies that support students with varied learning and communication requirements.

My teaching philosophy emphasizes holistic student support, focusing not just on academic progress but also on social-emotional development and individual strengths. I am passionate about collaborative approaches that involve students, educators, and families in creating comprehensive learning pathways.

I am particularly drawn to Edgecumbe School's reputation for inclusive education and would be thrilled to contribute my specialized skills to your team. My experience in behaviour modification, curriculum adaptation, and learner support aligns perfectly with the requirements of this role.

I look forward to discussing how my background and expertise can support your school's learning and behaviour support objectives.

Warm regards,

Henriette Charlotte Beeslaar
